Rebels girls and boys power into playoffs

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Rebels girls and boys basketball teams have both won their first games in the playoffs. The girls' team, coached by Coach [Name], defeated [Opponent] in a close contest. The boys' team, coached by Coach [Name], also secured a victory over [Opponent]. Both teams are now looking forward to their next games in the playoffs.

The girls' team's victory was a testament to their hard work and teamwork. They played a solid game, with strong defense and efficient shooting. The boys' team's win was equally impressive, as they showed great resilience and skill throughout the game.

CPS gym dunked

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel area escaped relatively unscathed from an early week rainstorm, but SAD44 officials now find themselves confronted with a potentially expensive water damage problem at Crescent Park School.

The rain to the south of Bethel in southern Maine, where it dropped up to 18 inches of water in less than 24 hours, but locally the rainfall was enough to saturate the ground and cause flooding in some areas.

The situation at CPS, however, was not the handwork of Mother Nature, but of an errant playground type ball that broke a sprinkler head in the school gymnasium.

Hundreds of gallons of water descended in the 8 to 10 minutes it took to shut the system off, according to principal David Murphy.

The sprinkler broke Saturday. By Tuesday, SAD44 Supt. Kent Webster reported "significant damage" was becoming apparent in the gymnasium's hardwood floor.

"Quite a few of the boards are curling," he said. "We're waiting for the people who installed the floor to come in and examine the damage."

There was no school on Saturday.

Lions will accept help with Mollyockett Day

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Swallowing their pride, members of the Bethel Lions Club have agreed to let other town organizations help with the planning and execution of Mollyockett Day.

The agreement came at the conclusion of a meeting Monday with the town selectmen and representatives of a number of civic organizations.

The Lions Club has managed Mollyockett Day events on the common for the past 27 years. The day's activities are the sole annual fundraiser for the organization, with the proceeds going to support the Lions' eyesight programs.

But in the eyes of many local people, the annual July celebration has been deteriorating in recent years.

A dozen or so people turned out Monday to discuss these concerns -- which ranged from the demise of traditional events to the increased competition from commercial businesses.

But despite their complaints, the speakers were at pains to assure the Lions Club they had no desire to take over the event.

"We'd like to work with the Lions Club in trying to bring back the Mollyockett Day I remember from my childhood," said Allen Connors, of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce.

Others echoed these sentiments. The Lions Club members readily acknowledged there have been problems with recent events -- problems they attributed largely to lack of manpower and the drying up of funding for events such as the fiddlers' and woodmen's contests.

Dick Fain, of the Bethel Rotary Club, complained also of the in-

Hanover hit puts mice in a pickle

By ALISON ALOISIO

Three Hanover men have built a better mousetrap -- so much better, in fact, that mice in that town are becoming an endangered species.

Necessity was the mother of this invention. Three years ago, Jeff Watts bought a vacation home in Hanover. It wasn't long before the rodent problems started.

"Mice were invading my woodshed," he said. "They got into my traps and snow machine."

He tried the usual -- snap traps and sticky traps. They worked, but only briefly. The mice came back.

Roger Robin and John Hanawalt decided to do something about it. Hanawalt had one die in the wall. Robin had stored all the years he had lived in his house -- 27 in all. He had cats, but they weren't particularly dedicated mousers.

The three men got to talking one day last fall about the problem.

"I said I needed a trap that didn't need baiting when I wasn't there," said Watts.

They decided to try to come up with a design that would do just that.

The retired Hanawalt had experience as a machinist. Robin, also retired, worked for Boise Cascade. Watts was in the orthopedic implant business.

"We tried different designs, and came up with a crude prototype," said Watts. "The morning after we set it up, we had three mice. We knew we were onto something."

"I went from hip and joint implants to mouse traps," said Hanawalt.

Twenty more versions later, the men went through the patenting process for "The Maine Mouse-ah," with help from state Sen. Norm Ferguson of Hanover.

"We learned there were 4,400 patents for mouse traps," Hanawalt said. "Now there are 4,401."

The baiting mechanism must remain a mystery, at least for now, on the advice of the men's patent lawyer. But the basic principle is this: a steep, mouse-sized wooden ramp runs up the side of a gallon-size plastic container. The mouse climbs the ramp and enters the container through a hole near the top. The animal then traverses a wooden dowel to the baiting mechanism, which uses peanut butter.

"The baiting device works on gravity and the mouse's energy," said Hanawalt.

The mouse (who never even has the luxury of reaching the peanut butter) is then dropped to the bottom of the container, which holds RV antifreeze. There it drowns -- and is effectively pickled until the homeowner returns.

WHERE CREDIT IS DUE

To the Editor:

Recent stories in both the Sun-Journal/Sunday and the Citizen concerning my involvement when a canoe capsized on Songo Pond last week need to be clarified. Although the positive personal comments of congratulations were a bit overwhelming and repeated responses from me of "it wasn't all that big of a deal" seemed to be quickly dismissed, it's time to set the record straight.

On Monday, Oct. 14, during a rather brisk, windy day, I heard on the scanner in my office the Oxford County dispatch calling for Bethel Rescue, reporting a capsized canoe on Songo Pond. Dispatch reported that one occupant had made it to shore with the other missing and presumed to be in the water. Since I did not know whether Bethel Rescue had access to a boat and my boat was still in my garage, my friend Chris Klimek and I went to the scene to see if we could assist. On the north end of Songo we were met by Jim Bennett and another EMT of Bethel Rescue who greatly assisted in launching my boat and proceeding with me to the apparent scene. As we flew across the rather rough water, I was amazed to watch Jim get into a wet suit, fully prepared to jump into the frigid water if necessary.

When we reached the scene, Chief Bellman and others were already there on shore assisting. Apparently both occupants of the canoe had independently made it to shore. I dropped off Jim Bennett and others on shore to provide emergency services to the gentleman who had been in the water. Chief Bellman and I assisted another man who braved the elements in a small boat, in a heroic attempt to help those who were in the water. My friend Chris and I later retrieved a "rapidly-heading-south" paddle from the pond, returning same to the north end of the pond.

The long and short of it is "it wasn't that big of a deal." Part of living in a small town is your responsibility to help others in need. The real heroes continue to be our unbelievable rescue team, who day in and day out volunteer their time, expertise and lives to be available to others at a moment's notice. They and Chief Bellman deserve any and all credit for a job well done.

MOLLYOCKETT DAY CONCERNS

To the Editor:

The Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors would like the readership of the Bethel Citizen to understand the goals we had in writing a letter to the Bethel Board of Selectmen, about Mollyockett Day and all events which take place on the Bethel Common. We have discussed, in our board room, the issue of Mollyockett Day for nearly three years and decided it was finally time to see if the people of the Bethel area wanted to have a say in how this community event is organized and presented. Please reprint the entire letter we originally submitted, which makes clear what the chamber's goals are:

(Editor's note: the text of the original letter follows.)

"As Mollyockett Day has come and gone, we the Board of Directors of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, would like to voice our concern on the direction this event is taking. All events held here in Bethel reflect back on the community at large.

"Traditionally, Mollyockett Day has been set aside as a celebration of family, community and heritage; a day where friends and family return to Bethel for reunions.

"In recent years, we have seen smaller crowds, less family oriented activities, more out-of-town vendors with no ties to the community and a sense of hopelessness among community non-profits, some who no longer participate in the day.

"Members of our board have offered to help the organizers improve the overall direction and quality of the day's events but we are met with only requests for money. Many of our member businesses have contacted us in recent years with their observations that the image of the day is deteriorating. We think it is time to act on these very real concerns.

"Since the town owns the common, we appeal to your sense of authority and leadership. We have been told that there are no written standards for events being held on the common. We believe there should be, and we would like to work with you and other interested community organizations to develop these standards so that all events held are ones we can be proud of. We look forward to hearing from you soon."

For your readers, I would like to clarify a news story in the Sun-Journal/Sunday. It is true, I have opened a new office in Lewiston, at the YWCA. I am, however, also continuing to offer polarity energy therapy sessions in Bethel at Therapeutic Massage. BICENTENNIAL BOOKLET

To the Editor:

The Bicentennial Booklet Committee has been busy over the past several weeks sorting through photographs, writing text and collecting information to be included in its commemorative picture booklet. The booklet begins with the first of the fundraising projects which took place in 1995, and continues through all of the exhibits, programs, activities and celebrations that occurred this year to mark Bethel's 200th birthday. Dozens of photos have been selected for use in this collectible booklet which will also include lists of town officials and committee members, and a chronology of Bethel history. It should provide an interesting glimpse of what Bethel was like in 1996, and how the bicentennial was celebrated, for future generations. We are very grateful to all the people who so generously shared their photos with us and to everyone who contributed information.

In order to help with the cost of publication of the booklet, the committee is asking interested area individuals, businesses and organizations to act as sponsors. Everyone who makes a minimum donation of $10 will be listed on the sponsor page in the book. It's a great way to become a part of Bethel's history and there's still time to get involved, deadline for donations is Oct. 31. Make checks payable to Bethel Bicentennial Committee, Booklet Sponsor, P.O. Box 995, Bethel, ME, 04217. We plan to have the booklet available for sale in time for holiday giving, so watch for future announcements.

HOW MUCH DO VOTERS KNOW?

To the Editor:

The adequacy of public information is one of the many issues brought about in the current debate over forestry practices. As a librarian and graduate student researcher, my interest is focused on how people gain needed information about public issues and then use it when contributing to public decisions both locally and statewide.

I am sending this letter to local weekly newspapers in Maine for several reasons, including a hope of obtaining responses from readers on the topic of public information. Local newspapers remain an important place where people may gain community information and exchange views through letters.

Related to this fall's ballot initiative, various newspaper articles and broadcast media reports have commented on "voter confusion." As part of a research project on land-based information, including land ownership and use, I would appreciate written comments from any of your readers on topics related to relative availability of public information and its bearing on this issue. I am looking for genuine questions, observations and creative suggestions on how to improve this situation (if it needs improving). I am interested in topics such as:

Are you, as a voter, in fact confused as reported? If yes, why do you think this is? If not, why has confusion become an issue in the press?

Where have you obtained most of your information on this issue: news, friends, workplace, personal observation, public forums?

Do you think owners of private lands should have the right to have their identity protected; or, that this information should be public?

Are you informed about how future land uses will be monitored under each ballot proposal? And, who will supply this information and have future access to it?

Would you like more complete details about studies that have been done on this topic, including the State Planning Office study and University of Maine studies of clearcut impacts?

Do you think issues such as these are basically technical in nature, and should be in the hands of commissions and the legislature rather than decided by the general voter?

Are there other specific questions you would want answered before November if you knew where to ask? Confusion may be related to lack of information; or, it could be related to conflicts over central core values and uncertainties about how these are reflected in the ballot questions. There may of course be no confusion. Adequate information may be available for all who care to find it.

I welcome your replies by mail. All responses will be confidential. You may reply without your name or any identifying address, though naming your town may help me in evaluating responses. Contributions will not be acknowledged unless specifically requested. Further information about this project can be obtained from me at the Department of Spatial Information Science and Engineering at the University of Maine, 581-2103. Please send replies to: Information Questions, P.O. Box 360, Stillwater, ME, 04468.

REFERENDUM INFORMATION

To the Editor:

The Oxford County Cooperative Extension recently sent me some information regarding the Forestry Practices Referendum for which we will be casting ballots on Nov. 5. I have found this extremely helpful in my decision making. It defines the terms which make understanding any of the proposals difficult. For each forestry practice option, the piece explains its purpose, its scope and specific differences in such items as the clearcutting definitions, clearcutting standards, separation zones, relations to municipal ordinances, harvesting and other standards.

If you are interested in reading this information, I have made copies and posted them at the Town Office, Café Di Cocoa, the Ethel Bisbee Learning Center and the Adult Ed Center at Telstar. Additionally, Ethel Bisbee Center has posted a terrific selection of articles on the topic. Check it out. Learn. Think. Ask more questions. Vote!

South Paris garden stock now in Greenwood

By ALISON ALOISIO

While the battle over Bernard McLaughlin's world-renowned garden rages in South Paris, many of the plants -- including rare lilacs and other flowering plants -- have been quietly moving to a hillside in Greenwood.

"I've moved all the money plants," McLaughlin's son Richard said of the smaller plants last week. "I've got all the one-of-a-kind stuff, like the peonies. I consider what's left (in South Paris) to be run-of-the-mill."

He also has the offspring of 60 to 70 species of lilacs in Greenwood now, including 20 to 30 rare varieties. The older lilacs remain in the South Paris garden, where Richard had been caretaker for years.

He began serious preparations to move the plants to property near his camp in Greenwood about a year ago. He knew his 98-year-old father, Bernard, wanted the South Paris property sold after his death.

Bernard had spent 60 years collecting rare lilacs and other plants -- including hostas, azaleas, day lilies, irises and bleeding hearts -- from all over the world. With the sale of the property to a developer a strong possibility, moving the plants seemed to be the smart move.

So Richard leased 26 acres of hillside land overlooking Mud Pond on the Greenwood Road. He began clearing brush last fall.

Then, late in the year, Bernard died. That's when "the soap opera," as Richard calls it, began.

The battle is joined Last spring, people interested in preserving the South Paris garden organized a group to raise money to make an offer on the $495,000 asking price. Richard initially supported the effort.

But differences over long-term plans for the garden led to controversy, and two competing preservation groups ultimately formed -- the McLaughlin Garden Preservation Committee, which includes McLaughlin himself -- and the McLaughlin Foundation.

They both currently have offers on the property. The committee Richard supports has offered $225,000, and has until Oct. 30 to come up with the money. The other group had bid $200,000 and has raised approximately $60,000, but had not matched the higher offer as of its Oct. 14 deadline.

Richard's group said they had helped raise $6,500 initially. But since the groups split, it is unclear who has the right to those funds.

A spokesman for the foundation group said its offer would stand if Richard's group doesn't raise the $225,000. And the property could yet end up in the hands of a developer.

Richard said fighting his group's battle for the property is as much a matter of principle as a desire to keep the garden intact.

"They (the other group) wanted to take everything I have away from me," he said.

Bernard had given Richard verbal assurance the flowers and lilacs were his to take. The foundation group, Richard said, has tried to get him to return the plants to South Paris. He refused.

Is he holding the hostas hostage? Richard believes having the plants gives him leverage with the other group.

"My son and I could put the garden back the way it was," he said. "But they can't do it without us. I'm willing to share it with the public. I hate to see a legacy lost."

Richard views the opposing group as out-of-staters trying to take over. The McLaughlin Foundation -- endorsed by the national Garden Conservancy -- has plans for the property that include a director, orientation center, master gardener, classes, workshops and offices.

Richard's group, on the other hand, wants to preserve the garden as is, without the added programs.

But foundation fundraiser Dorothy Zug, who says Richard and his group are difficult to deal with, sees Richard's actions as motivated by anger at Bernard.

Richard, who was adopted, readily admits he never got along with his father. Richard has said he believed his father wanted the property sold to deliberately keep it away from him.

A woods farmer

But Richard says he has a genuine interest in the plants for their own sake.

He describes himself as a woods farmer, raising mushrooms, ginseng and wild rice, in addition to the transplants from South Paris.

"I think the two gardens could work well together," Richard said. There's only about one and a half acres in South Paris. There's no room for composting. And this (the Greenwood site) could be used as a nursery."

He said that regardless of what happens in South Paris, the Greenwood garden will be open to the public. He also said he has no plans to sell any of the plants for profit.

Does he have any predictions regarding the fate of Bernard's garden?

"I hope one person -- of financial magnitude -- will come and save it," he said.

But time is running out.

"I'm going to go buy a lottery ticket this week," Richard said. "I never had a reason to before."

Those seeking reading matter with a local area setting that one never seems to tire of should look no further than the three best-known books of Louise Dickinson Rich (1903-1991). Her first one, "We Took to the Woods," (1942) became a national best-seller. Her subsequent volumes, which also describe life in the wilds north of Bethel, are equally interesting: "Happy the Land" (1946) and "My Neck of the Woods" (1950). Mrs. Rich, a teacher from Massachusetts who married a Chicago businessman, spent several years living on Rapid River in buildings that still stand today and look much like they did in the 1940s.

Wight proposes condo development

NEWRY--Steve Wight returned to the Planning Board last week to discuss an altered version of a clustering-village model housing development. He originally proposed the plan for 17 single-family homes in June of 1995. The model concentrates development in a smaller area, while providing large common areas for residents to share. Vagueness in Newry's cluster development definition and issues over roads within the development complicated the board's progress on the application, and Wight postponed the project. He has since redesigned it, and will now present the plan as a 26-unit condominium project. It would still provide for separately-constructed dwellings -- a departure from the traditional condominium design. "Condominiums are a type of ownership, not the building," Wight said. He will make a formal application to the board at a later date.

Vote on sewer plant, planning grant

BETHEL--A referendum vote has been set for Nov. 25, to determine if town voters are willing to borrow up to $769,080 as the town's share of a $1,705,000 sewer plant upgrade, and if they are willing to accept a state planning grant of $18,500. Voters will also be asked if they want to pay for three new Bethel Parkway street lights, to be installed at either end of the parkway and at the intersection with Lincoln Street. An informational meeting on the three questions has been set for Nov. 13.

No new old tires found

GREENWOOD--An inspection last week by the Maine Department of Environmental Protection found no evidence that more used tires are being added to Peter Gordon's tire dump. Michael Parker, of the DEP's Bureau of Hazardous Materials and Solid Waste Control, said his inspection was in response to an increasing number of reports of tractor trailers entering the Rabbit Road. Since July 1995, Gordon has been under a court order not to add to the estimated two million tires already there. Parker said he saw no signs of further dumping, and he recommended that if citizens think they see loaded trucks going to the site, they should call the state police or Oxford County Sheriff's Department. The law-enforcement agencies can respond faster than the DEP, Parker said, and police and sheriff's deputies now have the authority to impound vehicles engaged in hauling tires to unlicensed or closed tire dumps.

Glazier quits AWD

ANDOVER--Andover Water District trustee Anne Glazier resigned last week, after five months on the board. She said frustration over the board's inability to make progress on issues -- including cleaning the current reservoir and finding a site for a new water source -- prompted her resignation.

Bartholmew seeks legal fees

PARIS--CNA Brenda Bartholomew of Newry, who believed she was unfairly branded by the state for allegedly abusing a patient at the Market Square Health Care Center, has won her case in Superior Court. She is now seeking reimbursement for $12,000 in legal fees. In a Sept. 17 decision, the court ordered an annotation of abuse stricken from her record in the registry, saying the state's definition of abuse is too vague. Bartholomew used the palm of her hand to strike down an unruly patient's leg as he tried to kick her, after he had just struck her in the head with his arm. The effect of the annotation would have been to bar Bartholomew from ever working as a CNA again in Maine or probably anywhere else, she said.

Andover girl found in Mass.

PARIS--Oxford County police have located an Andover girl, missing from her home since Sept. 9, in Massachusetts, according to detective Jim Miclon. Phalen Haney, 14, was believed to be traveling with an older boy, but when she was found Sunday in Northbridge, Mass., she was alone and staying at a house with people she had befriended while she was away. Miclon said Haney would be held by Northbridge police until arrangements for her return to Andover can be made. She will not be charged with any crime, he said. Last December Haney and a friend went on a cross-country car trip with Lewis Danny Newcomb, 44, of Andover. Newcomb, who was charged with criminal restraint in the incident, was eventually shot and killed in a San Diego, Calif. motel after he turned a gun on police. Haney witnessed the shooting.

Webster to negotiate extension

ANDOVER--SAD44 will negotiate with Dr. Kent Webster, current interim superintendent, to extend his contract through the end of the school year. School directors voted last week to give the Negotiations Committee authority to work out a deal with Webster. He had originally been hired for the period of Oct. 1 to Dec. 31, replacing outgoing Supt. Ron Jenkins. The School Board plans to readvertise for a permanent superintendent. The Superintendent Search Committee conducted a search recently, but did not receive sufficient applications, according to member David Langlois of Newry.

Clarks to perform here

BETHEL--Slim Clark, who was recently inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame's Walkway of Stars in Nashville, Tenn., will give a concert at Telstar High School on Nov. 2 at 7 p.m. His daughter, Jewell, of Bethel, will also sing a variety of traditional country songs, a number of originals and several songs featuring yodeling. Tickets will be $8 a seat, and the door will open at 5 p.m.

Roadside erosion workshop Thursday

PARIS--A roundtable workshop for area road crews regarding roadside erosion control is scheduled for Oct. 24 from 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. at the Woodstock Town Hall. The topic will be planning for drainage of spring runoff, and will be followed by a presentation by road foreman Percy Monk on construction and use of a sand sweeper. The meeting is sponsored by the Androscoggin Valley and Oxford County Conservation Districts. There is no admission charge. For more information call Jim Chandler at 743-7019.

Floods can threaten wells

PARIS--Flood water poses potential health problems for rural homeowners who depend on wells for their drinking water. Wells can become contaminated with disease-causing bacteria, soil and possibly toxic chemicals. Faculty members in the University of Maine Cooperative Extension are available to discuss steps homeowners can take to keep their wells safe. They also have printed materials which explain well disinfection procedures. In Oxford County, contact Barbara Murphy at 1-800-287-1482.

Recumbent bikes gain popularity

GREENSBURG, Pa.--Most people's first reaction to pedal-powered choppers is, "What a funny-looking contraption!" But when they climb aboard, lean back and start pedaling, they learn why recumbent bicycles are fast becoming the latest riding craze. "Your neck, back and rump won't take a beating like they do on conventional bikes," said Karen Meider, who co-owns a recumbent-exclusive bike shop. The three-wheeled bike, with a seat like a small chair, places the rider in a reclining position. According to some in the bike business, recumbent and semi-recumbent bikes soon may gain the popularity of mountain bikes as baby boomers grow older and find conventional cycling not worth the pain. "It's the perfect bike for people who think they can't ride anymore," Meider said. "You're sitting upright with full back support. You're not looking at the pavement. There is no pressure on your arms and wrists." Dealer Gerald Kraynick sells a typical recumbent for between $1,000 and $1,500. The price won't come down, Kraynick said, until a major manufacturer invests in the bikes.

From the Bethel Police log:

Target practice unwelcome

At 2 p.m. on Oct. 20 a Chandler Hill Road resident reported his neighbors frequently fire weapons from their deck for long periods of time. He said he was concerned that there is no backdrop for the rounds to strike and there are numerous houses down range. Police went to the residence, but found no one home. There was evidence of broken clay pigeons nearby. The officer asked the complainant to contact the department when the subjects returned, as they were in violation of firing a weapon within 300 feet of a dwelling without permission.

Wednesday, Oct. 16

At 7 p.m. a Songo Pond Road resident reported that when she left the Bethel Foodliner she observed her passenger-side sliding-door window was smashed. She said nothing was taken from the vehicle, but the door was unlocked. The officer observed only a slight amount of glass on the ground and in the vehicle. He checked the area later and located a great deal of glass on High Street. The glass appeared to be the same type. It did not appear the window was damaged where it was reported to have been damaged. Police spoke with the subject to find out why and possibly issue a summons for filing a false report. The subject changed her story, and said she went home first before returning to the Foodliner, then called police.

Thursday, Oct. 17

At 8:21 a.m. a complainant reported her husband had sold a boat for $3,000 to a West Bethel resident. The purchaser gave him a check for that amount. He reportedly also told the buyer that he would not be able to assist her in moving the boat because he was not allowed on his wife's property. The complainant felt the incident was a violation of a protection from abuse order issued earlier stating, "the defendant is prohibited from taking, converting or damaging property in which the plaintiff may have legal interest." Papers were later served on Kent Taylor (no age given) of Lovell for violation of the PFA order.

Friday, Oct. 18

At 12:58 a.m. a subject was stopped on Mason Street and administered a field sobriety test, which he failed. A balloon test was also administered, with results pending. Ernest A. Mason, 27, of Bethel was charged with O.U.I. and released from the scene.

At 3:14 p.m. a complainant reported he had been advised by his real estate agent that the people who reside behind his Route 232 property were using it as a roadway. They had also reportedly disposed of various items there, such as junk cars, snowmobiles, etc. He reported the situation to the Town Office and was told the property had been foreclosed on and should have been abandoned. The complainant and Town Office asked for any information that might become available regarding who, if anyone, was staying at the location. The complainant wanted to take additional steps to have the property cleaned up.

Saturday, Oct. 19

At 11:40 p.m. an anonymous subject called and reported there were several juveniles consuming liquor at a residence on the Chandler Hill Road. Police went to the residence and observed a juvenile drinking beer while sitting at the kitchen table. She was in the company of three male adults and a female juvenile. Harlan R. Blake, 26, the owner of the residence, was issued a summons for furnishing a place for minors to consume. The juvenile's name and information were to be sent to the juvenile case worker for prosecution for possession of alcohol by a minor.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies. An answering machine takes calls when an officer is not in the office.

Mice

"It's quick and painless," claimed Hanawalt. And solves the problem for camp owners, whose worst problems often happen after they've closed up and gone home for the fall and winter. The trap resets itself after each catch.

RV antifreeze is also safe for pets, should they get into it. There's also the non-antifreeze, catch-and-release option. The trap comes complete with wooden tongs to remove the live mice.

By the time the men had progressed to their final design -- and caught 150 mice -- they had run out of native mice to test it on.

"We went out and bought three mice to make sure they could get into the final model," said Robin.

But the design doesn't work on rats -- at least, not after the first one.

"The rats are too smart," said Hanawalt. "They won't go for it if there's already a dead rat in there. The mice will just keep coming, though."

The final touches

The trap container, forest green in color, is designed to be aesthetically acceptable as it sits in the corner of a home or camp.

"It looks good with a plant sitting on it," said Hanawalt.

The men believe their invention will also have a commercial market, in businesses with mouse problems.

They've set up production in a shed in Robin's back yard, where they're preparing the first thousand traps.

Maine-made materials are used as much as possible in the trap. For example, J.A. Thurston of Rumford and Northern Wood Products of Oxford make parts.

The three men hope to expand to a larger facility, if the business is successful.

To help ensure that, they've had a special logo designed, featuring a Maine Coon Cat wearing an L.L. Bean chambray shirt and boots. The slogan at the top reads, "The Last Mousetrap You'll Ever Buy."

Hanawalt and Robin also star in a 30-second TV commercial now airing on ESPN, CNN, Lifetime and USA Network cable channels.

Filming was done in August on the porch of a Howard Pond log camp.

Hanawalt does the talking and Robin does the rocking -- in a porch rocking chair.

Hanawalt tells how they got seven mice the first night with a later edition of the invention. He ends by peering inside the trap and saying, "Ayu, got another."

It took a few tries to get it right.

"They'd say 'Roger, you're not rocking right,'" said Hanawalt. "Or they'd tell me, 'You weren't looking down in the bucket.'"

Their television careers aren't over yet, either. This week they're scheduled for a studio interview on Channel 5 in Bangor, and Channel 13 has also contacted them.

Meanwhile, the men are still cranking out traps in Robin's shed, watched occasionally by his cats, Tommy and Ann.

"They're now unemployed," said Robin.

(The Maine Mouse-ah sells for $29.95 plus $4.95 shipping and handling, and $1.80 tax. Call 1-800-693-7221 or 1-207-364-4783 to order. The traps are also expected to be available later this week at Maine Line Products in Bethel.)

creased commercial competition for fairgoers' dollars.

That was the main reason, he said, behind the Rotary Club's decision not to have a food booth on the common this year.

But Lion Eldon Greenleaf said the commercial groups sprouted up on the common only after the non-profits had already begun to disappear.

One year, Greenleaf said, the common was down to only one food booth.

When selectman Rick Whitney complained about the hard-rock music at one recent Mollykoff Day, Greenleaf readily admitted the music was inappropriate, but he said the band was not at all what the Lions had been promised: "We're not perfect," he said. "We were taken for a ride that year."

Following more than an hour of discussion, it was decided that improvements could be made, and that setting up a Mollykoff Day Committee was probably the best way to approach the matter.

The Lions present raised no objections to working with such a committee.

The new committee is to be modeled in part on the Bethel Bicentennial Committee, which won high praise for its work on the town's 200th-birthday celebration.

The Mollykoff Day Committee will be made up of one representative each from any interested town organizations.

Town Manager Madeleine Henley agreed to send letters to likely groups, asking each to send a representative to the first meeting of the new group, set for Nov. 6.

Others with an interest in the matter are asked to contact selectman Rick Whitney, who will chair the initial meeting.

Rebels

team that anything can happen in the playoffs, she doesn't see overconfidence as a problem.

"Not with this team," she said. "They're so upbeat about playing, and they work together so well as a team."

Soccer

The No. 4-rated Rebel soccer team faces No. 5 North Yarmouth Academy at Telstar on either Friday or Saturday (information not available at press time). As in the case of the field hockey team, Telstar's opponent is a relative unknown.

"I don't know much about them," said coach Bob Remington. "They're hockey players, so they'll play aggressively -- but we can handle that. It should be a good game."

This year's Rebel team is one of only three to win 10 games in a season, finishing with a 10-3-1 record.

"They're probably the second or third best we've had," said Remington, who started coaching when the soccer program began in 1979.

He sees several keys to the team's success -- Tony Buker's surge in goal scoring, the shift of Cory Koch from midfield to forward, the performance of new goalkeeper Wade Luxton, and the efforts of Fred Emerson, who replaced Luxton as sweeper. All four players are seniors.

Buker set both single-season and career goal-scoring records this season. His 23 season goals broke the 1988 record of 18 goals, shared by Greg Axler and Brant Remington.

That brought him to 34 career goals, breaking Tim Remington's 1994 mark of 32.

"I thought (before this season) it would be a long time before anyone broke the career record again. Tony had only 11 career goals in three years. I thought, 'He'd have to score 22 -- four above the season record -- to do it. He did it.'"

Remington credits Buker's aggressive shooting, coolness under pressure and a change in strategy in approaching the goal as keys to his success.

A change partway through the season moved Cory Koch to forward from his previous midfield position, complementing Buker's prolific shooting.

"When we did that, teams had to deal with both of them, and it was very difficult for them to prevent us from scoring. Before, they'd put a couple of guys on Tony. Cory ranks pretty high in career goals, and there are only two people with more career assists."

In addition to Buker's record scoring, another pleasant surprise was Wade Luxton's quick development as a goalkeeper. He had never played the position as a varsity player prior to this year.

"He has good hands, he's quick, he's strong -- and he's not afraid," Remington said.

Luxton had previously played in the sweeper position. "Fred Emerson took over and did the job as sweeper," Remington said.

Those strengths combined to give the 1996 Rebels the second-best goals-scored/goals-against differential in school history, Remington said.

He hopes this team will better the playoff record of last year's squad, which made the playoffs but lost to Falmouth in the first round.

"I think we have the toughest route (through the playoffs). My feeling is North Yarmouth Academy and Falmouth (waiting to play Friday's winner) are the two best in Western C," said Remington. "Someone will probably have to beat both of them to be state champs."

Cross-country

While the boys' cross-country team has not been among the top contenders in their sport, coach John Applin says they have a shot to qualify this weekend for state competition.

That would be no small accomplishment for a team that perennially has a minimal number of runners. "It's been eight or 10 years since we qualified as a team," said Applin.

This past weekend, the team placed fourth in a field of nine at the Mountain Valley Conference championship at Waterville.

The top Rebel finisher was Jason Billings, in 12th place.

Dana Howe, usually a top team finisher, was 30th, finishing behind teammates Scott Lane and Jerry Bernier. Had Howe not been battling a cold, Applin said, he -- and the team -- might have placed higher.

For the girls, who did not score as a team, freshman Jenny Sue Howe was the top finisher, in 27th place.

day. The ball that hit the sprinkler head was apparently kicked by a child who was in the gymnasium without adult supervision.

The sprinkler is 18 feet overhead and protected by a cage. Murphy said it does not appear the ball was deliberately aimed at the sprinkler, but school officials are continuing to investigate the incident.

The child was one of two children let into the building by a teacher who was working Saturday, Murphy said.

School policy requires that a building-use permit be obtained if children are to be in the school outside of normal school hours, he said.

FROM THE

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

All are invited to two upcoming events on Monday, Oct. 28. From 5 to 7 p.m. members and friends are invited to October's Business After Hours at The Loft Restaurant on Route 2 in Bethel. Owners Phil Cox and Matt Havdra are anxious to meet all of you! After that event, all are invited to the Telstar High School auditorium for a forum of the Forest Practices Referendum which is co-sponsored by the Bethel Area Chamber and Western Mountains Alliance.

The chamber's Merchant Committee has been meeting weekly on Wednesday mornings to plan for a pre-holiday "shop local" campaign and promotion. They decided to sponsor a slogan contest to be the overall theme of the promotion and would welcome submissions to the chamber office by Oct. 31. The guidelines for the contest are: the slogan needs to be seven words or less; it needs to have some type of "shop local" theme; the contest ends at 5 p.m. on Oct. 31. The selection committee will choose the winning slogan on Nov. 1, and announce the winner at the general membership meeting on Monday, Nov. 4. The winner will receive a cut Christmas tree, compliments of Pooh Corner Farm, and a variety of gift certificates from area merchants.

How many leaves did the leaf peepers peep? High winds blew down many in Upton, which is great for the hunters.

One member of the Upton Ladies Aid informed me that they are looking at Saturday, Nov. 23, for the Hunters Supper. Details upcoming.

Thirty-two contestants have now joined the 5th Annual Big Buck Contest at the Trading Post. Give me an H. U. N. T. Hunt!

Nancy Thew and Ed Bennett reported seeing six moose and four deer between Newry and Upton. Congrats also on the Cranberry Wheels. "Keep on truckin'..."

To the boys in the lodge, "Soups on! Thanks for your patronage and congrats on bagging the moose." Trivia time; Nobody had the answer for why is Old Spec named Old Spec, but Jerry remembers hearing that from a certain point, the mountain appears like spectacles or eye glasses. Can anyone vouch for this?

Mrs. Kassie Gatchell and little daughter Kaity of Portland were visitors here Friday and they stayed overnight. They visited the first-grade class at Crescent Park School Friday morning and Kaity spent the afternoon with me. Kaity is a first-grade student at the Riverton School in Portland. On Saturday her father, Bernie Gatchell, and friends Ron and Carla came and took a foliage tour. Kaity spent the day with her grandparents.

Sunday callers here were Ethel and Craig Turner and Daisy, their new springer spaniel puppy.

Recent visitors of the Bill Bancrofts were Laurel Foster and friend from Florida and Mrs. Muriel Kimball of South Waterford. They also visited their mother's and sister's lots in the Songo Cemetery.

On Monday, Dottie Adams came up and drove me to Auburn to celebrate Sylvia and Christopher's birthdays. Ethel brought me to Norway Lake to meet Norma.

Not so many evening lights around the pond now.

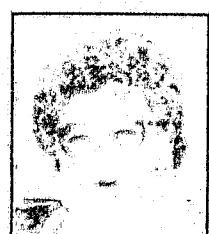

In the high winds over the weekend a large tree blew down near Mac and Nancy Davis' house.

Mrs. Mary Keniston was a recent visitor here.

The mercury dropped down into the teens here Friday morning.

Albert Nelson Sr. is happy now. He has loads and loads of log-length wood delivered to be worked on. That will keep him busy for a while.

Matthew Nelson was around the area selling popcorn for his Boy Scout Troop 155. His grandfather is a good customer of his.

Pat and Carol Buck have had a new septic system put in.

Brenda Files has been painting the outside of her house and it looks real nice.

Charlie Merrill is still in the hospital in Lewiston and gaining slowly. I bet he would love to get visits and cards from all his friends.

Eleanor Nelson visited Sarah Grover at Ledgewood Memorial Home in West Paris on Wednesday. She also visited Jean McKenzie who is there recovering from a broken hip.

Frances Grant visited Wilma Taylor and Ede Holt at Stephens Memorial Hospital one day last week.

South Woodstock

by Andrea Wing
Monday, Kellie Record, Jessie Hart and I traveled to Portland to visit Sarah Hart, who is attending SMTC. It was a day off for Sarah and the rest of us because of the holiday. I'm not a city driver, but made out okay. We went shopping at several stores and took Sarah to lunch at Friendly's. It was a beautiful day and Sarah and Jessie (sisters) had a good time looking for a dress for Jessie for homecoming. We also saw the ship that drove into the Million Dollar Bridge and caused a lot of damage.

The weather sure has been cold the last few days. Feels like snow in the air. The winter birds have started arriving at our very popular bird feeder.

Sympathy goes out to the family and friends of Benjamin Wilson. Grace Hurd, who lives in South Woodstock, is a daughter of Mr. Wilson.

Sympathy also goes out to the family of Gertrude Farrar. Mrs. Farrar had many family members who live in this area.

Terry Merrill was a patient at Stephens Memorial Hospital overnight last week. Terry is feeling much improved now.

I just have to make a few comments on the funeral of Benton Swan. What a thoughtful and nice gesture to carry him to the cemetery in his old Model-T truck. He must have been much loved by his family. His son Jon works with my husband Richard at MDOT in Bethel. It was a very nice article on the front page of the Bethel Citizen last week. I hope everyone took time to read it as it was very interesting.

A very special birthday wish to Linsey Record who is celebrating her birthday this week.

Quote of the week: "I've learned that fashion is something that goes out of style as soon as everyone has one."

Greenwood City

by Colista Morgan
I always feel a touch of sadness when my flying jewel leaves for the south to stay for the winter.

The ruby-throated hummingbird has gone. I enjoy watching this speedy hummer snacking at the feeder. Hummingbirds throughout the U.S. share many traits such as beautiful coloring, the ability to fly in all directions and hover in one place, a hearty appetite for flower nectar and of course sugar water from feeders. The ruby-throat is unique because he is one of the smallest in the U.S., measuring less than four inches. Each, male and female, have a brilliant metallic green coat but it's the male with the scarlet throat. Because of their small size, ruby-throats can move their wings up to 200 times per second, faster than most other hummers. In migration they fly 2,000 miles and some fly non-stop across the Gulf of Mexico in just one day, a 600-mile journey. I have read and been told that they leave with the geese and "hitch a ride" among the feathers of the geese. That, I wonder about, for I have never seen it happen. They are defensive dynamos, especially during mating season.

I have put their feeder away until spring, but often find myself looking at the place it was for the summer. So it's good-bye until 1997 when you return again, hummer.

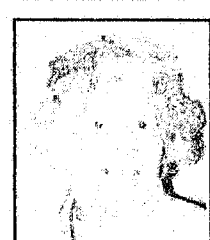

Sunday was an interesting day at the Morgan-Holt Farm. Robert and daughter Jennie Holt from Windsor; David, Sally and Mary from Norway; and Ann from Greenwood City came. I fit in there somewhere for I'm an aunt or great "Aunt Clis," or sister-in-law. There was work and fun. The cows, about 20 of them, somehow got out of the pasture. A friend came and took several of us to the top of Noyes Mountain to see the magnificent view, and there were several callers. Of course everyone enjoyed Fay's lovely dinner.

One day during the week I enjoyed a call from Mr. Christie, a superintendent I had at school, whom I had not seen for many years. He and his wife were viewing the fall beauty.

This is the time of year that I think especially of my hiking pal Ruth. We just wandered here and there like the leaves floating in the autumn air. I looked up my scrap book, "Trails Remembered," and spent an hour looking at the pictures and writings of our hikes.

Carl and Lettie Brooks called a few minutes one afternoon.

North Newry

by Gil Seeley
Mrs. Doris Hale of Franklin, Conn., passed away recently. She was a former resident of North Newry and lived where Betsy and Dick Clark are living now. Rev. and Mrs. Norman Scruton and their daughter Naomi and husband from Ancortec, Wash. were recent guests of Bill and Sylvia Wight. Mr. Scruton was the last minister to serve in the Umbagog Interstate Larger Parish.

President Owen Wight of the Windy Valley Sno-Mobile Club, and Bill and Sylvia Wight, director/alternate, attended the Presidents Night of the Maine Sno-Mobile Association at the Augusta Elks Club on Tuesday, Oct. 15.

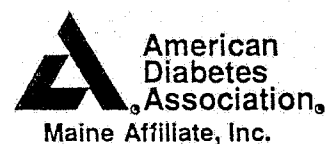

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Bea Lowell, Doris Parent and Olive Anderson, members of the Newry Bowling Gang, were at Oxford Lanes one day last week. On the overall scores, Betsy was high on the singles, beating Doris by two pins and Karlene by four pins. She was also high on the triples. She had two spares, Karlene had four spares, Bea had three spares and Doris had one.

The Newry Grange Hall was the scene of a joyful and noisy gathering of friends and relatives for the 40th Wedding Anniversary of Nancy and John Wight on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 13. All their children were there: Mike Wight, Terri Littlehale, Loretta Berry, Brad Wight and wife Brenda, grandchildren Jason and Mandy Berry, Dani and Staci Littlehale, Kathie, Kurt and Kevin Wight. And about 60-70 in all counting some babies! It was great to see friends and relatives coming together after some time of absence, because some came from far away places and had not seen each other for years! All kinds of delicious food and drinks disappeared, lots of laughter and kidding all around...fun, fun, fun. We wish this nice couple many more years of happiness together.

Happy birthday to Josh Morton on his 18th. "Wishing you the best, may all your dreams and all your hopes come true. For you deserve the very best and that is what I'm wishing you!"

As you read this we will be enjoying our Maine Studies Week guests and activities. Guest readers will be sharing stories with all classes, and several will involve a follow-up activity. We are focusing on music and literature this year. We are singing Maine songs during our opening exercises, and are looking forward to hearing a Maine musician, Rick Blake, on Friday morning. We are making preparations for Halloween. Halloween stories are being read, pumpkins are being carved, and preparations for our Halloween party are in the making. We are looking forward to the revival of our Halloween parade. We will be leaving the school at 2 p.m. and hope that lots of people turn out to see our efforts. The kindergarten children will come to school in the afternoon that day, so they will be able to participate. The fifth-graders and their parents are preparing for the public supper that will be given jointly with the First Universalist Church to help raise money for our annual trip to Boston in the spring. The supper will be on Friday, Oct. 25 at 5 p.m. at the First Universalist Church. The cost is $4 for ages 12 and over and $2 for ages 11 and under. Come support us and enjoy a great meal.

The fifth-graders are planning a bottle drive on Saturday, Nov. 2 from 9 a.m. to noon. We will be collecting around town, and will have a contingent at the school for those who would like to drop off bottles and cans.

Ranks close on Friday, Nov. 1. Parent conferences will be on Tuesday, Nov. 12. Be watching for your conference slip to come home.

On Oct. 28, the kindergarten children will be attending an all-day field trip to Chipman Farms as part of their study of life in Maine.

On Oct. 24, Mrs. Merrill's third-graders will be joining their pen pals from Hebron on a field trip to Whispering Pine Mine, as part of their science study of rocks and minerals.

Friday, Oct. 25 is an early release day. Students will eat lunch at school and then be dismissed at 12:30 p.m.

There are lots of fantastic activities going on, and more being planned. See you next week!

Sincerely,
Sam and Deborah DiPhilippe

Obituaries

HARTSON "BAG" WELCH JR.

Hartson W. "Bag" Welch Jr., 75, of Heeny, Colo., formerly of West Paris, died Friday, Oct. 18, 1996, at a Wheatridge, Colo., hospice center.

Mr. Welch was born in West Paris on July 1, 1921, son of the late Harrison and Pearl (Rogers) Welch, and attended West Paris schools, graduating in 1939 from West Paris High School. He then attended Maine Central Institute, Pittsfield, for one year. He excelled in baseball, as a third baseman, during his school years and also with the West Paris team of the Old Pine Tree League. His nickname of "Bag" was derived from the loosely fitting baseball pants he wore during his early baseball years.

A veteran of World War II, Mr. Welch served in the South Pacific Theater with the U.S. Army, 43rd Division, 103 Infantry. He was activated for overseas deployment with the Maine National Guard, from the Norway Armory.

Following discharge from active duty, Mr. Welch established his home in Golden, Colo., and was associated with the Coor's Porcelain Company for many years, until his retirement, at which time he moved to Heeny, where he had previously built a home on the shores of the Green Mountain Reservoir.

Mr. Welch enjoyed hunting and fishing and will be remembered as a genial host, always welcoming family and friends, especially those from his home state of Maine.

He was a member of the American Legion Post of Golden, as well as the V.F.W., and was a 50-year member of West Paris Granite Lodge, F&AM.

Survivors include a sister, Phyllis

W. Young of West Paris; a stepson, Terry Leonard of Golden, Colo.; a nephew and two grandnephews, all of Stamford, Conn. He was predeceased by a sister, Mrs. Shirley W. Rose, in 1992.

Funeral services and burial will take place in Golden on Wednesday, Oct. 23, with military honors by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

EDITH G. THURSTON

Edith G. Thurston, 83, died Saturday, Oct. 19, 1996, at her home in Stow.

Born at Hebron, the daughter of Ernest and Elma Merrill Gurney, she attended Hebron Elementary School and graduated from Norway High School.

Mrs. Thurston was married to Abel Thurston and lived in Norway, Stoneham and had been at Stow for 27 years. She was predeceased by her husband in 1989.

She enjoyed hunting and fishing and did a lot of cooking for charitable events.

Survivors include two sons, William of Stow and David of Albany; three daughters, Laura Walker of Lovell, Carole Rugg of Albany and Katherine Ela of Stow; one brother, Howard Gurney of West Paris; three sisters, Edna Briggs of West Paris, Hazel Holden of Fryeburg and Margaret Gurney of Norway; 16 grandchildren; and 19 great-grandchildren. She was predeceased by two sons, Lawrence and Howard.

Graveside services will be held Wednesday, Oct. 23, at 11 a.m. at Riverside Cemetery Annex in South Paris. Donations may be made to the Community Health Services Inc., Hospital Drive, Bridgton, ME 04009.

Corrections

Swan obituary. Last week's obituary of Ernest Swan should have recorded that he died on Oct. 4, 1996, was a graduate of Woodstock High School, and had a son Wilfred. Services were held on Oct. 8.

THOUGHTS FROM THE

Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words comfort and hope for your daily life.

One of the privileges of being a minister is the opportunity to be present at critical times in peoples' lives. In the past two weeks, I have buried a college classmate and tried to comfort her adult children; I have talked to a couple about baptism of their children; and I have counseled and married a couple in their sixties. I am reminded of Ecclesiastes' well-known words (3:1-24) --

"For everything there is a season, and a time for every matter under heaven: a time to be born and a time to die, a time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to mourn and a time to dance."

Even those people who are disillusioned or disappointed with church or simply find it irrelevant, turn to the church or her representatives for these important life events. I am glad they do and welcome them. There are times when we all need to reach for the unseen, for comfort and for celebration of life. I think of it as our hope for holiness in our lives and in our deaths.
